

A conversation on water and eco-centrism –

Is eco-centrism part of our deep values, spirituality and faith?

Should water resources management reflect an eco-centric ethical perspective?

How can we transform our interactions with water and living things to better reflect our values?

Join us for this afternoon workshop at Willamette University College of Law, sponsored by the Water Ethics Working Group, Water Future and the Willamette Sustainable Environmental, Energy, and Resources law program. A reception and light dinner will follow the workshop. The workshop is limited to 32 participants. To join us in conversation on the 16th, please contact Professor Susan Smith at smiths@willamette.edu or call +1(503)586-8619.

JUNE 16, 2017 1 – 5 PM, Salem OR

SEEKING WATER JUSTICE:

HEARING THE VOICE OF THE SACRED SALMON

